We at Siu-Ka-Pha Multispecialty Hospital, Assam are delighted to see that, the flagship hospital of our Trust BAVP, Dr, Hedgewar Hospital, which has been working persistently to better the lives of common people by conducting various programs in the rural areas relentlessly, and providing affordable quality healthcare facilities in those areas, while also increasing employability, has finally earned recognition for their years of dedication.

In 1989, BAVP started as a charitable trust having only 10 beds to operate with, and the intention of serving the under-privileged section of the society. Since then, up until the present moment, they haven't stopped or slowed down, but have only revved up their work and their involvement in trying to raise the living standards of the poor villages and slums, in different forms, such as conducting various social upliftment programs like AIDS awareness, empowering women, helping with the basic medical aid etc.

It also conducts free health check-ups in the remote locations where accessibility to hospitals is not present, while additionally providing them mobile dispensaries as well. Earlier, most people continued to live with their diseases or pain, or created a temporary solution to it.

BAVP has over 600 social development programs running in numerous slums and villages across the country. It has always aimed to work towards the betterment of community health, empowerment of women, providing basic education to children, skill development for the adults, which ultimately enables them to lead a life of dignity with basic human necessities.

BAVP had started with an aim in mind and will continually operate by providing excellent medical services at an affordable cost to the common man, and will run as a project of the people, by the people and for the people.

With this aim in mind, the trust has joined hands with ONGC Foundation for setting up a 350-bedded Super-Specialty Hospital named ‘Swargadeo Siu-Ka-Pha Multispecialty Hospital’ in Sibsagar (Upper Assam) which is an area of dire need for restoration and development. This part of the project will include Super-specialties, world-class technologies, diagnostics technologies, which will help us in delivering Cardiac care to the needy and underprivileged people and moreover, the inauguration for the project is due very soon.
